I hear your voice
Disappears from view
Your burning voice
A thousand miles away
I hear your voice
A thousand miles away
Your skin so sharp
You're my, only, friend"my father used to take a drink or two when I was young
It was then that hallucinations always dangled from his tongue,
The skies ablaze with ladies legs he used to say,
They're kicking from the cloud,
Shoes fall from the morning haze
And splat like eggs above the crowd,
Can you see them son?"
Distant voices,
Those distant voices,
Distant voices,
Those distant, voices.
I hear voices so I wrote,
Time it is a great healer.
I hear voices so i wrote
You have time to live your hopes
And then you have just begun
To see there is more to heaven
Senses told you this also
So much happens to me
I hear voices so i wrote
Only once did I leave my body
Others doubt the possibilities.
No.earl grey tea
Hot
Make it so
Engage
Insanity is just one small step away from all of us
We peer into the abyss and what do we see?
A pallid reflection of ourselves
Our lives unfurling like some damp flag
Yesterdays mirror
Tomorrows news
Wrapped around some drunks bottle
