

False Confidence

Noah Kahan

Don't take yourself so seriously
Look at you all dressed up for someone you never see
You're here for a reason but you don't know why
You split and uneven your hands to the sky
Surrender yourself
And I wonder why I tear myself down
To be built back up again
Oh I hope some how I wake up young again
All that's left of myself
Holes in my false confidence
And I lay myself down
And hope I wake up young again
Hope I wake up young again
Don't let those demons in again
I fill the void up with polished ?
Fake sentiment
Surrender yourself
And I wonder why I tear myself down
To be built back up again
Oh I hope some how I wake up young again
All that's left of myself
Holes in my false confidence
And I lay myself down
And hope I wake up young again
Hope I wake up young again
Why won't you take me seriously
Look at me all fucked up
Over someone I'll never meet
And I wonder why I tear myself down
To be built back up again
Oh I hope some how I wake up young again
All that's left of myself
Holes in my false confidence
And I lay myself down
And hope I wake up young again
Hope I wake up
Wonder why I tear myself down
To be built back up again
Oh I hope some how I wake up young again
All that's left of myself
Holes in my false confidence
And I lay myself down
And hope I wake up young again

Hope I wake up young againHope I wake up young again

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>