

The Difficult Kind (feat. Sarah McLachlan)

Sheryl Crow

I think I was wrong
I think you were right
All my angry words
Will keep me up at night
Through the old screen door
I still hear you say
Oh honey won't you stop
Treatin' me that way
If you could only see
What love has made of me
Then I'd no longer be in your mind
The difficult kind
'Cause babe I've changed
Tell it to me slow
Tell me with your eyes
If anyone should know
How to let it slide
Swear I can see you
Comin' up the drive
And there ain't nothin' like regret
To remind you you're alive
If you could only see
What love has made of me
Then I'd no longer be in your mind
The difficult kind
'Cause babe I've changed
I crossed the canyon a thousand times
And never noticed what was mine
What you'll remember of me tonight
Well it almost makes me cry
Yeah it almost makes me cry
Ooh!
Oh ballbreakin' moon and ridiculin' stars
Oh the older I get, the closer you are
Don't you have somewhere that you need to be
Instead of hangin' here, makin' a fool of me
If you could only see
What love has made of me
Then I'd no longer be in your mind
The difficult kind
But you won't see the change in me
Ohh, if you could only see
What love has made of me
But I'll forever be in your mind
The difficult kind
But you won't see, no you won't see
The good in me

But babe I've changed
'Cause babe I've changed
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>