

To the Key of Evergreen

The Devil Wears Prada

You hang your hand out the car window
We travel by the roadway's hum See the signs pass Watch the fields go by Every mailbox
Every streetlight Right here with me: exist amongst the wheat
Amidst the leaves you watch listlessly
To the key of evergreen, I listen to the whisper
We'll climb the mountains before we meet the sea
The rain will stop eventually
I'll drive slow across black ice and you'll be safe to rest your eyes Soon enough the sun will go down but It's no bother, I'm not tired
It's no bother
I'm not tired
I'm not tired We'll climb the mountains before we meet the sea
The rain will stop eventually
I'll drive slow across black ice
and you'll be safe to rest your eyes
We'll climb the mountains before we meet the sea
The rain will stop eventually
I'll drive slow across black ice
and you'll be safe to rest your eyes
My lovely,
My lovely,
you'll be safe to rest your eyes

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>