

Florida

Modest Mouse

Although we'd often wondered it was no thing of wonder, the shit that flew from our minds
While wearing stains of fresh fruit and riding on shoes of horse glue, on this ridiculous climb
With great tunnel vision we'd built ourselves a mission, to ride on bullets inside Oh what a vain description of what we had been missing, so why would anyone try? It was always worth it that's the part I seem to hide
And the busy ant empire put up the closing sign I wasn't always cargo I was once kind of my own, I guess I'll pack up my mind
Well it took so much effort not to make an effort, oh what a flawless design It was always worth it that's the part I seem to hide
And the busy ant empire put up the closing sign
Even as I had left Florida
(Yee-ha!)
It was always worth it that's the part I seem to hide
And the busy ant empire has all deserted hive
It was always worth it that's the part I seem to hide Even as I had left Florida, far enough, far enough wasn't far enough
Couldn't quite seem to escape myself, far enough, far enough, far from Florida
We were all drowsing in cruise control, far enough, far enough wasn't far enough
I stood on my heart's supports thinking
Oh my god I'll probably have to carry this whole load
I couldn't remember if I tried
I couldn't remember if I took my brain out threw it so directly at the goal
I couldn't remember if I-I-I-OOOOh
I could have my mind erased and still not know exactly what I don't already know
Even as I had left Florida
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.songlyrics.com/>