The Mortician's Daughter

Black Veil Brides

I open my lungs, dear
I sing this song at funerals
No rush

These lyrics heard a thousand times Just plushA baby boy you've held so tightly

This pain it visits almost nightly

Missing hotel beds

I feel your touch

I will await, dear

A patient of eternityMy crush

A universal stillNo rust

No dust will ever grow on this frameOne million years and I will say your name I love you more than I can ever screamWe booked our flight those years ago

I said I loved you as I left you

Regrets still haunt my hollow head

But I promised you I will see you again, again

I sit here and smile dear because I think of you

And I blush

These bleeding hollow dials

This fuss

A fuss is made of miles and travels

When roadways are but stones and gravel

A bleeding heart can conquer every crush

We booked our flight those years ago

You said you loved me as you left me

Regrets still haunt your saddened head

But I promised you that I will see you

We booked our flight those years ago

I said I loved you as I left you

Regrets no longer in my head

But I promised you and now I'm home again

Again

Again

I'm home again

Again

Again

I'm home again
