Man With Two Hearts

Men At Work

Like a man who has two hearts
Both of them worlds apart
Both of them play their part you knowLike a man who has two wives
His life the becomes alibis
Nobody asks him why you knowCan there be peace

Between the heart and the brain?

No release always the same

I won't come here again

Like a man who has one hand

Still he does what he can

Shows he is twice the man you areAre we just beasts

With our burdens of pain

No release always the same

Cut off my legs

Torture and maim

I'm back here againLike a man who has two hearts

One day they fell apart

Both of them played their part you know

Can there be peace

Between the heart and the brain

No release to try is in vain

Stories repeat always the same

I won't come here again.
