Protest Song '68

Refused

To sing you must first open your mouth, you must have a pair of lungs, and a little knowledge of music It's not necessary to have an accordion, or a guitar The essential thing is that I want to sing then this is a song, I'm singingI breathe in and I create rewoke the spirit '68Fresh meaning to torn ideas let's bring life to old clichésPunch a hole in tradition yeah, let's listen to the songs of discontent to the chords and the movement. to the chords and the movement It could all be so simple, we would all stand baffled by the precision and accuracy Our jaws would hurt from dropping so hard, fast and unexpected It would be the perfect metaphor It would be the perfect song we'd be singing I breathe out and I scream rewoke the Malatestas dreamInspiration from the past focus to the future at lastFixed dogmas can't substitute creative thought and actionWe could be dangerous art as a real threatAnd all it is is words, words said a million times beforeAnd all it is is a song, a song sung a million times before I breathe in and I create rewoke the spirit '68 I breathe out and I scream rewoke the Malatestas dream Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by http://www.1songlyrics.com/