(feat. Mary J. Blige)[Intro: Wyclef Jean]

I want to apologize for makin you wait so long for the sequel

Wyclef, Mary J., this one called What About the Baby

You ever been like[Verse One: Wyclef]

Let me talk to my daughter

Daughter this is your poppa

I know it's been a while

We haven't talked[Mary J. Blige]

But daddy you've been gone

And me and mom have been all alone

It's been a struggle and you weren't there for us

He say

[Wyclef Jean]

Okay, when I called you

She wouldn't put you on the phone

She call the police, restrainin order

50 feet, from my home

I tried, I ain't lyin

It's so sad that the heavens cryin, AYY~!

Once a boy and twice a man

I'm just tryin to do the best I can

Give me a chance girl[Chorus: Wyclef]

A grown man ain't supposed to cry

So why does water fill my eyes when I hear your voice

Everything gon' be alright

Baby girl I'm by your side, dry your eyes

[Verse Two: Mary J. Blige]

Let's talk this over

Now see I heard everything that you told her

But it's gon' take more than words for you to be a father, uh-huh

Responsibilities of a man

Like stayin faithful just for the fam'

What if she knew that you chose another over her mother, aowwww!

So you called her and I wouldn't put her on the phone

I called the police yes, restrainin order

50 feet, from my home

I tried, I ain't lyin

It's so sad that the heavens are cryin, yeahhh

Once a girl, twice of a man
