I've Been Delivered

The Wallflowers

I could break free from the

Wood of a coffin

If I need

But nothin's hard as

Gettin' free from places

I've already beenI've been waste-deep

In the burnin' meadows

Of my mind

In the engine

In cold December

Shootin' fire from the hose

Now turn off your lights

'Cause I'm not comin' home

'Til I'm delivered for the first timeI was first-born to a parade

That follows in rows

Down a narrow cold black river

Faceless shadows

Movin' slowI would move swift when

The sounds of a trumpet would blow

I've been the puppet

I've been the strings

I know the vacant face it bringsNow the bells of curfew

They may ring before I'm through

But soon

I'll be delivered for the first time

You might keep clean

In the back of an angel motorcade

It doesn't matter who walks in

You know, the joke is still the same

You'll just wake up

Like a disposable lover

Decomposed

I've been gone

I've been remembered

I've been alive

I've been a ghostSo now, if downtown explodes

I'll still be on this road

'Til I'm delivered for the first timeI have drawn blood

From the neckline

When vampires were in fashion

You know I'd even learn

To cut my throat

If I thought I could fit in'Cause I, I once heard
That you gotta learn
How to blend in to this mess
Where nothin's hard
Nothin's precious

And nothin's smooth or flawlessNow, no more amused
Just screaming to be delivered
For the first timeNow I'm 10 miles in the deep

And mighty blue sea

Looking back, towards a long white beach Burnin' up into yellow flamesAnd I just wave back Like a little boy up on a pony

In a show

'Cause I can't fix Something this complex

Any more than I can build a roseSo just keep on letting go 'Cause I must be close

To being delivered for the first timeNow I'd rather bleed out A long stream from being lonely

And feel blessed

Well than drown, laying face down

In a puddle of respect

I was once lost

In the corridors of the arena

In blindfolds

I've been the bull

I've been the whip

I just pulled down the matadorSo now, turn on your lights
'Cause I'm comin' home
I've been delivered for the first time
