

All Is Not Gone

Changing Faces

still feel your presence though you're not around reminiscing on our ups and our downs still feel your presence though you're not near looking out of my windowpane wishing you were here if i had one wish, i would wish that you were here cos when i look over my shoulder could have sworn that you were there cos all is not gone all is not gone the thought of you and me still lingers on all is not gone all is not gone
'll pick the pieces up and carry on i wake up each morning, calling your name knowing that i'll never see your smile again god as my witness, i will be strong because i know the things you want from me somehow just carry on oh if i had one wish, i would wish that you were here cos when i look over my shoulder could have sworn that you were there repeat ooh; i look to the sky to make it better i've got to pull myself together my heart shall love his forever
all is not gone all is not gone
i'll pick the pieces up ooh yeah i'll pick the pieces up and carry on
