

One Woman Man

John Legend

I always believed that love will surrender
And I wouldn't go down without a fight
I always left room for other contenders
'Cause I might change my mind
Damn, I used to be so cold
We never ever get too close
Didn't ever wanna lose control
But from the moment that I tasted
I knew that I would have to chase it
You say hold up, I won't you to be
A one woman man
A one woman man, oh
Want you all to my side
Don't want nobody else
Oh, you love it
Oh, you love it
Won't you be
A one woman man
(one woman)
A one woman man, oh
(one woman) You made me believe that love was forever
And love could sustain us through every fight
I'll let go of all of the other
Pretenders they were wasting my time
I never thought that I would say this
But I can see us having babies
I could see it from the stars
That I might give you my heart
From the moment that I met you
Knew that I would never let you
Slip away, it's okay
You can make me
A one woman man
A one woman man, oh
Want you all to my side
Don't want nobody else
Oh, you love it
Oh, you love it
Won't you be
A one woman man
(one woman)
A one woman man, uh
(one woman) I can never say I loved you
I kept all my gold

But you broke in my house
You've stolen my heart
Now I've given you the key
Got all of you for all of me
But baby, I promise you'll be A one woman man, oh
Want you all to myself
Don't want nobody else
Oh, I love it
Oh, they love it
I can be
A one woman man
(one woman)
A one woman man, uh
(one woman)

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>