

Holyman

Blind Melon

I was born on the banks off a hot muddy river
The child of one stupid steamy night
Born to roam beneath the sun
What do you think of me, I'm better left alone
Yeah Said I met a Holyman who said that he knew the way
And he'd like to show me so my life won't go astray
Take my hand child, now little boy don't you be afraid
I'll take your soul and walk on water Holyman, you don't understand
The cuts on me they run much deeper
Holyman, you righteous man
I've been shown the way a thousand times
Not one a keeper
Older man he said I'll tell you boy
You've planted rotten seeds
And in a land of happiness
They'll grow us evil trees Guided minds
And eyes that will never see
Holyman I'll tell you
Just what it is that I believe Holyman, you don't understand
The cuts on me they run much deeper
Holyman, you righteous man
I've been shown the way
Not one a keeper
No, I gotta run away
Yeah, yeah, yeah
Holyman, I said I tell you why you gotta
Believe in what you see
'Cause it's you that corrupt us man and Deep throat philosophy I don't need your spells or the little
Games you try to pull on me
Come to think of it
I don't need your religion So I gotta get away
I wish you would understand
Everybody prays
Let me find my own
Let me find my own way Holyman, you don't understand
The cuts on me they run much deeper
Holyman, you righteous man
I've been shown the way
Not one a keeper Not one a keeper
Not one a keeper
Not one a keeper

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>