

Cold Old London (feat. Bridget Cady)

Rod Stewart

Don't know why, we first met
In cold old London, down by the Thames
We were sacred, and slowly fell in love
Oh but I just let you go We were made for each other
Was I too young to dream You said something that gave me butterflies
Life's a treasure, but love's so unkind
So please be careful, with this heart of mine
Ohh that I just let you go
You were my every moment
Was I too young to dream What fool I was, what a damn fool I was So blind I couldn't see, yeah
Now I'm getting older, and the girls are getting younger
Maybe it's too late for me I still wonder, where you are each night
Staring at the moonlight with a new man by your side
You were beautiful in every human way
Oh so why did I let you go
Cold old London
Cold old London
Ooh, ooh, ooh We were made for each other (for each other)
Was I too young to dream (too young to dream)
