

Suburban Myth

Less Than Jake

So let's hit the streets tonight
I'll show you where I lost my job and where I got chased by the cops
We'll jump the fence right off of 13th and 10th
To see where we played our first show I told you so
I told you
Everybody loses sight of, everybody loses sight of Everybody loses sight of all the how it's been and never was So let's hit the streets tonight
I'll show you where I drank on the job and hung out in that parking lot
Left at the light, that's Park 16th on the right
And that's the place that we called home I told you so
I told you
Everybody loses sight of, everybody loses sight of Everybody loses sight of all the how it's been and never was
That place you'll never get a chance to know
And all the people through the years you could've known
It makes me wonder what you're seeing
It's almost home, it's almost home

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>