Late Morning Lullaby

Brandi Carlile

As soon as my eyes shut the slide show begins
Yesterday is gone now and panic sets in
With a weight upon my chest and a ghost upon my back
And the numbing sensation of everything I lack that leaves meDreaming, dreaming, ooh

Your real world awayAnd beautiful, beautiful bright eyes lie Only beautiful, oh, beautiful bright eyes cry Singing late morning lullaby

The first sign of morning is gray and alarming It's so disappointing, the day has come so soon

While the rest of the world greets the day and feels new

I will push it away just like I always do, I will beDreaming, dreaming, dreaming, ooh Your real world awayAnd beautiful, oh, beautiful bright eyes lie

Only beautiful, oh, beautiful bright eyes cry Singing late morning lullaby, late morning lullaby Oh, I would darken my window so I can fall asleep

While the critics frown down on the hours, I keep that leave meDreaming, dreaming, dreaming, ooh

Your real world away Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by http://www.1songlyrics.com/