Born In Winter

GOJIRA

before all things reborn againyou learn the painful breath of timecold morning stretches out your armsto the mighty warmth of one golden sun seems all have gone insane for gold all was created out of the night we're all born from the burst of a star the day you'll come to life you'll realize expanding force of life where you belong and in the winter cold, with opened eyes you'll find the strength to fight and stand upright one day you'll walk the world and keep in mind the heart you've been given in winter time and through the bitter cold, with opened eyes you'll find the strength to fight and stand upright Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by http://www.1songlyrics.com/