Non Believer

London Grammar

We both know that you wanna love her
Skies are open crying, please don't believe her
'Cause she'll tell you lies and then say it doesn't matter
And you're pleased to see her calling them non-believersBut maybe she loves you and I'm just a preacher

Those burning skies and all who don't believe her

Non-believers, no

Don't believe her, no All that we are, all that we need

They're different things

Oh, maybe what we are and what we need

They're different thingsDo you realize again, you chased an idea

Healed an earth behind some broken creature

Maybe she loves you and I'm just a preacher

Non-believers crying don't believe her

Don't believe her, no

Don't believe her, no All that we are, all that we need

They're different things

Oh, maybe what we are and what we need

They're different thingsGive you my all and you're taking my everythingAll that we are, all that we need

They're different things

Oh, maybe what we are and what we need

They're different thingsAll that we are, all that we need

They're different things

Oh, maybe what we are and what we need

They're different things

All that we are, that we need

They're different things

All what we are, what we need

Oh what we are, what we need

Lyrics provided by http://www.1songlyrics.com/