

Luckiest Man

Jay Sean

I didn't know know
Until I saw you run
That perfect glow glow
It wasn't from the sun
Where do I go go
When I have no light
Cause you were my sunshine When you were here here
I felt like I could fly
But now I fear fear
To look up at the sky
And it's so clear clear
That I need you around around Since you've been gone
I've been falling apart
Walking around with a hole in my heart
Didn't realize who I was till I lost you girl
I was the luckiest man in the world
The luckiest man in the world
In love with a beautiful girl
I was luckier when you were around
But my luck just ran out I had the world had the world
In the palm of my hands
Had a girl, had a girl
Who would die for her man
How can I live when my life's just running away
What is the point now I was wrong, I was wrong
For feeding you lies
And you were strong so strong
But it kills you to fight
And now you're gone so gone
And my luck went away away
Since you've been gone
I've been falling apart
Walking around with a hole in my heart
Didn't realize who I was till I lost you girl I was the luckiest man in the world
The luckiest man in the world
In love with a beautiful girl
I was luckier when you were around
But my luck just ran out Waste of time
Both yours and mine
What a waste of all those white lies
If I could tell you one last lie
I'd say I'm doing just fine Now that you're gone girl I'm falling apart

Walking around with a hole in my heart
Didn't realize who I was till I lost you girl
I was the luckiest man in the world
Since you've been gone

I've been falling apart
Walking around with a hole in my heart
Didn't realize who I was till I lost you girl
I was the luckiest man in the world
The luckiest man in the world
In love with a beautiful girl
I was luckier when you were around
But my luck just ran out

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>