

Black & White Jingle #1

Imani Coppola

Sometimes life may feel like it's sucking you up
But it's not, it may be just you sucking
Sometimes life may feel just like you're losing the race
But you're not, you're just letting everyone else win Sometimes it feels like everyone's being a dick
But they're not, it's just you being a dick to everyone
Somedays it seems like nothing works right
But its fine, you're probably using it wrong
You wanna change the world, you better start with yourself
Charity starts at home in the skin you're in I'm not sayin' you should go and change your face
But if it bothers you that much you should get a nose job I'm talking about what lies beneath the black and white
There's a mass of gray, it is called your brain
Do the math or hire someone to do the books
But you're the one gotta pay the taxes
All the colors in between birth and death
Are in your head, so you should stop bleaching your teeth
So take a look at what you thought was black and white
And you will see that there was nothing there at all Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>