Thunder in Your Heart

John Farnham

You're taking a chance, risking it all
For the thrill of the moment
Taking a stand, you ain't gonna fall
You've always known itThey're dying to shake you,

Trying their best to break you

And though the going is rough, you're going home as a hero'Cause there's thunder in your heart Every move is like a lightning

It's the power you feel when you get your taste of the glory

There's a fire gonna start

And you know they're going under

You can light the dark when they hear your heart of thunder.

Cry of the wind, spirit of fire

The heart of a lion

Taking control, burning desire

Your flame never dyingDon't lose that feeling

Don't ever stop believing

There's one more moment of truth and you're gonna face it'Cause there's thunder in your heart Every move is like a lightning

It's the power you feel when you get your taste of the glory

There's a fire gonna start

and you know they're going under

you can light the dark when they hear your heart of thunder. When they hear your heart of thunder.

'Cause there's thunder in your heart

And you know they're going under

You can light the dark when they hear your heart of thunder. There is thunder in your heart
And you know they're going under

You can light the dark when they hear your heart of thunder. Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by http://www.1songlyrics.com/