Libel

Tilt

I am listening for a voice It began a little while ago And then it stopped again Thought I recognized it Hear that there it goes right now Like a whisper I'm imagining But now it's screaming Inside my head Can you hear it? Can you hear it? Ignorance personified Can you hear it? Can you hear it? You try to bite your words But they keep forming In your mouth And they are libelous Hottly popping out I am beyond the cutting range Of your dull mind And jagged tongue And this you cannot stand You cannot stand Can you hear it? Can you hear it? Ignorance personified Can you hear it? Can you hear it now? You better listen to yourself Can you hear it? Can you hear it now? Follow me all the way home But you haven't got the guts To come in too close Follow me all the way home You just want the chance to show How little you really know
