

Whole Heart

Brandon Heath

Well I called Your name a long time ago
And You sprung a well from a heart of stone
But I was careful then what I let You see
Only thought You wanted the best of me
The less I trust You the less I grow
The more You love me the more I know
I don't have to be afraid to show
All of me
All of me
Where there's hurting
You show me what healing can do
Where there's hatred
You show me how kindness can move
Where there's fear deep inside
I won't run I won't hide
I'll give You all of me
So that You can see
Every broken piece
And open up my whole heart
Whole heart
And love You with my
Whole heart
My whole heart
So I'm ready now gonna let You in
All the way to the scars beneath my skin
And You don't look away cause You understand
And You hold my heart with a gentle hand
Where there's hurting
You show me what healing can do
Where there's hatred
You show me how kindness can move
Where there's fear deep inside
I won't run I won't hide
I'll give You all of me
So that You can see
Every broken piece
And open up my whole heart
Whole heart
And love You with my
Whole heart
Whole heart
My whole heart
The less I trust You the less I grow
The more You love me the more I know
I don't have to be afraid to show

All of me
All of me Where there's hurting
Where there's sorrow and shame
Enter into the pain Where there's hurting
You show me what healing can do
Where there's hatred
You show me how kindness can move
Where there's fear deep inside
I won't run I won't hide
I'll give You all of me
So that You can see
Every broken piece
And open up my whole heart
Whole heart
And love You with my
Whole heart
Whole heart
My whole heart

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>