Anything But Strong

Eurythmics

Why do you hurt yourself?

You do it very well

You do it so politely

That you couldn't even tell

When everything has changed

You think you're not to blame

How come you keep on talking

When the whole thing feels so strange?...But seeing is not the same as believing

When everything goes wrong

You're anything but strong

It's all bittersweet

Outside in the street

The grass is growing greener

Underneath your feet

We come and go

The deep water flows

Tiny leaves from small seeds

To tall trees do growBut wanting is not the same as needing

There's no need to pretend

You can't turn back again

And loving is so different to keeping

The hurting that we send

Is so difficult to mend(Hold on to the good things)

(That keep you from falling down)

(Hold on the good things)

(That keep you from falling down)How my heart aches

More than I can take

What are we really learning

When we make the same mistakes?

Where is your hope?

It's all gone up in smoke

You used to be so funny

Now it's just the same old jokeAnd laughing is so very close to crying

When there's nothing to defend

It gets you in the end

And living is so very close to dying

You struggle on and on

To find where you belong

Where do you belong?
