Hold Me Now

Kirk Franklin & The Family

The spring of April is gone The leaves have all turned brown The children are all grown up And there's no one aroundI'm looking over my life and all the mistakes I made And I'm afraid AfraidSomebody told me that You would wash all my sins And cleanse me from the scars that are so deep within So I'm calling to You If you can hear me I don't know how I was wondering can you hold me nowYou are the only one that's patient when I fall Your angels come to save me every time I call You don't laugh at me when I make mistakes and cry You're not like men You understand meSee people change one day They don't like you the next they do I wish that everyone could love me just like You So here I am this sinful man peace won't allowI was wondering can you hold me now I was wondering can you hold me nowTo every broken person that may hear this song To every boy or girl that feels their smile is gone I know exactly how it feels to lay in the bed at nightAnd cry And cry Don't you worry God is faithful and He cares About the tears you've cried and the pain you feel is there When you are weak that's when he's strong Even though you don't know howGod can and he will hold you now God can and he will hold you now God can and he will hold you nowDon't you worry he can hold you now

Lyrics provided by http://www.1songlyrics.com/