

We Must Be Crazy

Milow

Tonight the stars I look upon
Will shine long after I am gone
Where will I be this time
Tomorrow when I see them shine I walk along the avenue
Where everything I thought I knew
Has left me without a clue
Empty streets and empty stores
Windows covered up with boards
Graffiti written on the doors We must be crazy
But you're so beautiful
Life is hasty just like me and you
All these strangers
Working in the graveyard
Lovers and haters
We must be crazy
Out here in the night
Show me the light before I go blind
Out here in the night
Show me the light before I go blind Tonight the stars you walk below
The same that burned so long ago
In an age of stolen virtues
All your dreams deserted you
It's a long life to live
And I'm learning how to forgive
Myself for all the things I did
We are ordinarily beautiful
Open to be ridiculed
Common as the grass that grows so slow
We must be crazy
But you're so beautiful
Life is hasty just like me and you
All these strangers
Working in the graveyard
Lovers and haters
We must be crazy Out here in the night
Show me the light before I go blind
Out here in the night
Show me the light before I go blind Whatever changes come my way Whatever changes come my way We must be crazy
But you're so beautiful
Life is hasty just like me and you
All these strangers

Working in the graveyard
Lovers and haters
We must be crazy Out here in the night
Show me the light before I go blind
Out here in the night
Show me the light before I go blind
