

Young Hearts (feat. Nyla & Stylo G)

Henry Fong

I grow tired of trying to change your mind so many times to no avail
I held on to silver lining but that was just another place for sale
Questions burning in my heart that you had made unrecognizable Made unrecognizable But I'm gone, so don't tell me how you're gonna change your mind and stay
We were never quite like young hearts
We were never meant this way
But I'm gone, so don't tell me how you're gonna change your mind and stay
We were never quite like young hearts
We were never really meant to stay We were never quite like young hearts
We were never meant this way
We were never quite like young hearts
We were never really meant to stay
Story goes a love as blind just like the night before the break of dawn
But you had hidden all the certainties what did you take me for upon
As for such beneath your skin that I had always wanted to ignore
Always wanted to ignore But I'm gone, stop tell me how you're gonna change my mind and stay
We were never quite like young hearts
We were never meant this way
But I'm gone, stop tell me how you're gonna change my mind and stay
We were never quite like young hearts
We were never really meant to stay We were never quite like young hearts
We were never meant this way
We were never quite like young hearts
We were never really meant to stay Make me see dreams of fantasies more than what I could have made of
Saw me out into the deep, watch me sink or swim, as beneath my skin
We were never quite like young hearts
We were never meant this way
We were never quite like young hearts
We were never really meant to stay

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>