

Waiting 4 Ya

Phonte & Eric Roberson

Guess I'll look on the bright side
You and me, are not in love
Left my heart all open wide
But I found peace, ooh
And that's enough Maybe when the storm is over and if ever you wanna try our love again
I'll be waiting for ya
Sorry If I made you colder, but if you ever need a shoulder ya know I'll be
Right here waiting for ya
I thought I took a chance at love but really I was running from Things I didn't wanna feel
(I don't wanna feel)
Too much to soon and too consumed with all this bitterness, I never Took some time to heal
No, no, no
Long days and nights being all alone is the price you have to pay
(The price to be alone oh yeah)
And its all that you can do cuz every piece of happiness you knew
You pushed away
Suddenly I pushed away exactly what I need today Maybe when the storm is over and if ever you wanna try our love again
I'll be waiting for ya
Sorry If I made you colder, but if you ever need a shoulder ya know I'll be
Right here waiting for ya
Yessuh... one time... Yo
Unfortunate when somebody attempts
To swerve around before it time and its not as intense
Thats when your heart starts to ache and you're not as convinced
That being hurt over and over and over and over is love
Even though he said its not his intent
To be a burden but babygirl you been alerted you been observant
Say hallelujah you been converted
Just take your time to give hime space and reassurance
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>