

Ordinary Morning

Sheryl Crow

I left a man,
Asleep in the nude.
Name in my pocket,
With lipstick and rouge.
Everything I ever wanted, what a lovely pie you've baked, is anybody listening?
Don't painted birds ever fly away. It's just an ordinary morning.
It's just an ordinary day.
And I'm just an ordinary woman,
Slipping away.
The walls have been talking,
About me again.
I'm good for a joke but when I awoke,
The dream didn't end.
Now everytime I turn around I'm only sleeping, John is anybody out there?
Don't the wounded birds still sing. It's just an ordinary morning.
It's just an ordinary day.
And I'm just an ordinary woman,
Slipping away. It's just an ordinary morning.
It's just an ordinary day.
And I'm just an ordinary woman,
Slipping away.
Don't you wanna slip away?
Don't you wanna slip away?
I said now. Don't you wanna?
Don't you wanna? Don't you wanna?
Don't you wanna slip away?

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>