Clockworks

Meshuggah

Dismantling the clockwork that makes me the cynic
Pallet, wheel and click
The properties of mg indifference
Reverse-engineering what makes it tick
Dissecting the finetuned mechanism
Rack and barrel, spring and pin
Its synchronous characteristics
To kill what makes it spinDisassemble this machinery
Re-program these eyes, undo this design
Labelled and filed, each part indexed
Broken to pieces then thoroughly burned
Deconstruction of what I am

Buried to make sure he never returns

Taken apart, defused, blueprints turned to ashes

Eradicate the last remains, remnants of the insaneDisintegration, the destruction of me now imperative

To purge myself of this condition, complete this dissolution a necessityBreak this deceitful machineA lie, what once I was, obsolete instrument

An outmoded contraption, a malfunctioning device

That callous self now extinguished, that malignant self now disused conceited invention to nothing now reducedComplete disintegration, the destruction

That conceited invention to nothing now reducedComplete disintegration, the destruction of me now imperative

To purge myself of this condition, complete this dissolution a necessityBreak this deceitful machine

Lyrics provided by http://www.1songlyrics.com/