

At Least I Know

Tkay Maida

1 + 1 equals 2
All of your people can't add up the two
Trying to flex but can't tie up a shoe
Who are you to ask me where I've been?
You haven't paid attention I'm moving the cubes
Trying to stop me but not paying dues
Never be seeing what you have accused
I know better better 'cause I've seen it
Wanted to be what you wanted and now
You cannot see what is real in this cloud
Surrounded yourself with what you didn't count
Right off the radar like planes in the south
Changing the scripts, leaving you in the out
It's nothing to you, you're better left now
Know what to lose and what you shouldn't doubt
'Cause I am still here, what is yours isn't ours anymore
Can you look at how you turned things inside out?
Flames caught fire from what we laughed about
At least I know that you weren't right for anything
At least I know that you weren't right for anything
The way that I'd seen you couldn't have changed
At least I know that you weren't right for anything
At least I know that you weren't right for anything
Round it up up, til they go down
Looser now 'cause the place sold out
Missing you but I've made more progress
Since you been a mess grinding hard
I'm in this I go, I been out
Your conditions weren't vibing loud
I get the distance all made you trip
But a listen in will make you sprout
Seeing the difference I now see what matters
Some want me to stay for their own and some scatter
Better alone and I'm dreaming the battle
Is not with some immature people who babble
I'm in a different minds state, you don't travel
Look in my head, you can see it unravel
Constantly questioning why all these people
Are stuck in a box never changing the channel
If you had your way I know you
Would've taken all of me
I couldn't handle it
If you had your way I know you
Would've taken all of me
I wouldn't handle it

