MC Lars

La la la la la la la la
La la la la la la la la
La la la la la la la la It's 2006, the consumer's still pissed
Won't take it anymore so I'm writing a list
Don't try to resist, this paradigm shift
The music revolution cannot be dismissed $18.98 Iggy Pop CD
What if I can get it from my sister for free?
It's all about marketing Clive Davis see
If fans buy the shirt then they get the MP3 Music was a product, now it is a service
Major record labels why are you trying to hurt us?
Epic's up in my face like, "Don't steal our songs, Lars"
While Sony sells the burners that are burning CD-R's
So Warner, EMI, hear me clearly
Universal Music, update your circuitry
They sue little kids downloading hit songs
They think that makes sense when they know that it's wrong Hey, Mr. Record Man, the joke's on you
Running your label like it was 1992
Hey, Mr. Record Man, your system can't compete
It's the new artist model, file transfer complete La la la la la la la la

(Download this song) I know I'm rhyming fast but the message is clear
You don't need a million dollars to launch a career
If your style is unique and you practice what you preach
Minor Threat and Jello both have things to teach
I've got G5 production concept videos
Touring with a laptop, rocking packed shows
The old-school major deal, it makes no sense Indentured servitude, the costs are too immense Their finger's in the dam but the crack keeps on growing
Can't sell bottled water when it's freely flowing
Record sales slipping down 8 percent
Increased download sales, you can't prevent Satellite radio and video games
Changed the terrain, it will never be the same
Did you know in ten years labels won't exist?
Goodbye DVDs and compact disks Hey, Mr. Record, Man what's wrong with you Still living off your catalog from 1982
Hey, Mr. Record Man, your system can't compete
It's the new artist model, file transfer complete La la la la la la la la

(Download this song) You know we just wanted a level playing field
You've overcharged us for music for years
And now we're just trying to find a fair balance
I hate to say it but welcome to the future La la la la la la la la
