

Forgotten

From Ashes to New

Six feet from the bottom
I'm drowning in the water
Will I reach the air that keeps me here?
Or will I be forgotten? Will I sink or will I swim if I can't stand?
Drifting farther all alone in the ocean
I can see the end, will I breathe again?
Or wash away like a footprint in the sand?
I'm still fighting but the current carries me away
I try to surface but I'm caught beneath the waves
I'm slipping further, I'm sinking under I close my eyes, frozen inside of my mind
I know I swim and I live, I know I don't and I die
I'm hoping that I survive 'cause at this moment in life
I got the shiver within that's growing colder with time
Six feet from the bottom
I'm drowning in the water
Will I reach the air that keeps me here?
Or will I be forgotten? I feel the air leave my lungs as I sink below
Falling faster as I'm dragged into the undertow
I'm losing hope and I'm growing cold
Holding on when I feel like letting go
I keep pretending that someday I'm gonna make it out
Thinking heavy that's what always seems to pull me down
I'm slipping further, I'm sinking under I see the sky, I'm freezing barely alive
I feel the cold in my bones, alone preparing goodbyes
I know the air in the night, I know it's stereotypes
I see it flowing like an ocean with my very own eyes
Six feet from the bottom
I'm drowning in the water
Will I reach the air that keeps me here?
Or will I be forgotten? Every inch is a battle
Every breath is a war
Every minute's a struggle
I can't fight this anymore Six feet from the bottom
I'm drowning in the water Six feet from the bottom
I'm drowning in the water
Will I reach the air that keeps me here?
Or will I be forgotten? Be forgotten
Will I be forgotten?
Will I reach the air that keeps me here?
Or will I be forgotten?

