

Sea

Ina Wroldsen

Where the fields go from a dark brown
To a riveting bright yellow
Where the cars slow their speed down
And the boats glide on merit sea
Where the sun don't ever set
Or it never comes up
Where the sky turns violet
And the weather don't stop I spent so long looking for a way
I could be a part of another home
I tried so hard blocking out the waves
But my ocean heart never let it go
This people, my people
Sea people cannot really leave
This people, my people
Sea people come back to the sea
Come back to the sea Where the forest with its fairy trees
Bow their heads in snow greetings
Where the town sleeps and the sea freeze
And you think it won't ever melt
Where the wind is violent
So we raise the sails up
Where the ancient mountains
Are the ruler of us I spent so long looking for a way
I could be a part of another home
I tried so hard blocking out the waves
But my ocean heart never let it go
This people, my people
Sea people cannot really leave
This people, my people
Sea people come back to the sea
We come back to the sea Oh Oh Oh Oh And I spent so long looking for a way
I could be a part of another home
And I tried so hard blocking out the waves
But my ocean heart never let it go This people, my people
Sea people can not really leave
This people, my people
Sea people come back to the sea Come back to the sea
We come back to the sea
