

Fields of Verdun

Sabaton

As the drum roll started on that day, heard a hundred miles away
A million shells were fired and the green fields turned to grey
The bombardment lasted all day long, yet the forts were standing strong Heavily defended,
now the trap has been sprung and the battle has begun Descend into darkness 303 days below the sun Fields of Verdun
And the battle has begun
Nowhere to run
Father and son
Fall one by one
Under the gun
Thy will be done
And the judgement has begun
Nowhere to run
Father and son
Fall one by one
Fields of Verdun Though a million shells have scarred the land, no one has the upper hand
From the ground above to trenches, where the soldiers make their stand
As the trenches slowly turn to mud, and then quickly start to flood Death awaits in every corner,
as they die in the mud,
fill the trenches with blood Descend into darkness 303 days below the sun
Fields of Verdun
And the battle has begun
Nowhere to run
Father and son
Fall one by one
Under the gun Thy will be done
And the judgement has begun
Nowhere to run
Father and son
Fall one by one
Fields of Verdun Fields of execution turned to wasteland from the grass
Thou shalt go no further it was said they shall not pass
The spirit of resistance and the madness of the war
So...
Go ahead!

Face the led!
Join the dead!
Though you die!
Where you lie!
Never asking why! Descend into darkness
303 days below the sun Fields of Verdun
And the battle has begun
Nowhere to run
Father and son
Fall one by one
Under the gun Thy will be done
And the judgement has begun
Nowhere to run
Father and son
Fall one by one
Fields of Verdun
