

I've Forgotten You

Rhonda Vincent

Well it's snowing in Miami and it's hailing in L.A.
Money's growing like green apples on the trees
I've been hanging out with Elvis, yeah and all my bills are paid
And they're giving away Cadillacs for freeThe whole world gets along
And I haven't thought about you once since you've been goneI've forgotten you
I've forgotten every single time you kissed me
I don't miss it like you think I do
I've forgotten you
How you held me and it felt like it's what you were born to do
If I lie enough it might come true, I've forgotten you
There's a million things about you, I don't remember anymore
Like that time we got that cabin up in Boulder
I don't remember how you kissed me up against that old oak door
Ain't it funny how things fade right when it's overYeah I'm doing fine
I sleep just like a little baby every nightI've forgotten you
I've forgotten every single time you kissed me
I don't miss it like you think I do
I've forgotten you
How you held me and it felt like it's what you were born to do
If I lie enough it might come true, I've forgotten youCan't you see how I've moved on
No, I haven't thought about you once since you've been gone
I've forgotten you
I've forgotten every single time you kissed me
I don't miss it like you think I do
I've forgotten you
How you held me and it felt like it's what you were born to do
If I lie enough it might come true, I've forgotten you
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>