

Stephenville

Tyler and the Tribe

You think you're lookin' at a picture
A picture built on love
And if I never say never
Then we'll never know what was I've got my hands around the dagger
I need to work on some things
You find a way to leave, you know that we need
We may just spark us a flame You say you're lonely
Like I don't even care
I'm lookin' for someone, but I'm in a jam
And we both know that the distance is maybe
Just a little too far
You say you're lonely and that's a start
You found the model for the next one
Whoever might come along
Not really looking too far forward
Just at the one who wrote the song I've got to lay low 'til the next time
You need to follow me down
You can't release the habit, you know that it's bad
But you'll just let yourself down.
You say you're lonely
Like I don't even care
I'm lookin' for someone, but I'm in a jam
And we both know that the distance is maybe
Just a little too far
You say you're lonely and that's a start To fall in love with a stranger
Presents itself with too many dangers
Girl I've been there before
You say you're lonely
Like I don't even care
I'm lookin' for someone, but I'm in a jam
And we both know that the distance is maybe
Just a little too far
You say you're lonely and that's a start
Hey!

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>