A Grave Mistake

ICE NINE KILLS

Here lies a lifeless bride and groom Till death do us part came far too soon Buildings burn and people die All of the timeBut I heard that you reap what you sew So around and around we go And when you see my face you'll knowYou can't save yourself or save your soul When you meet the man whose life you stole With withered wings and broken bones A flight for the fallen, flies the crow Can't save yourself These vengeful thoughts trapped underneath Rage, scorn, misery Payback for what you took from me Hope, love, sanityI heard that you reap what you sew So here's to believing in ghosts Now when you see my face you'll knowYou can't save yourself or save your soul When you meet the man whose life you stole With withered wings and broken bones A flight for the fallen, flies the crowNo forgiveness, just farewell A match made in heaven You sent straight to hell No forgiveness, no escape May you rest in pieces For your grave mistake For your grave mistake You can't save yourself or save your soul When you meet the man who's life you stole With withered wings and broken bones A flight for the fallen, flies the crow You can't save yourself No you can't save yourselfFor your grave mistake You can't save yourself Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by http://www.1songlyrics.com/