

Touching the Ground

Brandi Carlile

I swear when we touched, I saw heaven in your eyes
And jewel studded clouds floating in your skies
Seas of blue and fields of green
Looking like you've fell out of someone's dreams
Why do my troubles turn true
Whenever I rest my eyes on you?
Why must my heartache be found
Wherever your feet are touching the ground?
You could sing an army of angels to sleep
The songs that could cause all the devil to weep
You hold me so sweet when the day is done
Enough to make you wonder where we all came from
Why do my troubles turn true
Whenever I rest my eyes on you?
Why my must heartache be found
Wherever your feet are touching the ground?
A heartache can be found
Wherever your feet are touching the ground
And now those eyes are filling with rage
Bringing me misery giving me pain
Curse these shackles that you put me on me
And blessed be the day when you set me free
Why do my troubles turn true
Whenever I rest my eyes on you?
Why must my heartache be found
Wherever your feet are touching the ground?
A heartache can be found
Wherever your feet are touching the ground
A heartache can be found
Wherever your feet are touching the ground
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>