

Empty Streets

Ghost Beach

I know a woman she's as cold as a stone and she hides in the shadows of an empty road
I tried to break her but she couldn't be broke
And we walked together on this empty road

But

I need a lover not just another not another
Not just somebody to spend the night
You want my reasons I couldn't tell you
And if I did it wouldn't ease your mind

I need a heartbeat to keep me loving

Pretty girls born in the 90's

They don't know much of '85

They're alive, I'm barely breathing

Want to remember what that feels like

I need a lover not just another

Not just somebody to spend the night

Don't need an answer don't need a reason

Things goin' pop baby that's alright

I need a heartbeat to keep me loving

Walking on empty streets

(I give them)

Walking on empty streets

Cuz they're filled with the faces of people I'll never meet

I'll run through the valleys

Between buildings and concrete

All I hear are the echoes

Where there once was a heartbeat

Beat 3x

I need a heartbeat to keep me loving

Walking on empty streets

End
