

Good Excuse

John Butler Trio

All around I see raining Things don't seem to go my way Got a dark cloud that's hanging And it seems to follow me Oh won't you just wake up feel the humming
This cruel world is killing you better start running Catch up with your life, catch on up Before the whole thing is through Have you once? Have you twice?
Have you even considered it be really good for you To go out and go on take another better look around You are just another white boy Thinking you're so hardcore Take step outside see what's shaking in the real world Go take a step outside see what's shaking in the real world But you don't know how my heart laments I really got a good excuse to complain
My parents got divorced
Can't heal the pain And now there is only cheap regrets
I guess that's just the way it be
Is it the world or how I see me Boy now you are really, really bugging Yes you are bugging me, can't you just shut right up Your cup is overflowing, overflowing
And you think it is indeed
You don't even know what side you are fighting for Boy won't you turn your game boy off Start pretending
it's you against the world
I am sick and I am tired of hearing I really got a good excuse to complain
My parents got divorced
Can't heal the pain And now there is only cheap regrets
I guess that's just the way it be
Is it the world or how I see me Go take a step outside see what's shaking in the real world

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>

