Gasoline

Demon Hunter

I thought about you I thought about the ones that I forget Oh please forgive me I hope that I've not pushed you to the edgeLet me wash away the painful words I wrote We can smother out the flames within my soul No more standing by the way that I believe We can smother out the flamesWith gasolineYou break around me You say that I should give my heart a rest We'll watch these flames Like a tower of dissent, choking out regret Devouring light An image of my soul, out of our control

Lyrics provided by http://www.1songlyrics.com/