No More Words (Jeff Hardy)

Endeverafter

Don't you see the writing on the wall

(Don't you see the writing on the wall)

You're in way over your head

You're gonna drown in the things that you saidTime has come and gone for words

A thousands threats I've heard before

But words are cheapBut lies are big to take

Time has come and gone for words

A thousands threats I've heard before

And all your words

Are too big to take

It's a paradoxA mystery, A riddle

A door in your face and only I have the key

Do understand

You'll be caught in the middleCaught in a web by being spun by me

Don't you see the writing on the wall

(Don't you see the writing on the wall)Just a victim of your own conceit

The architect of your own defeat

Time has come and gone for wordsA thousands threats I've heard before

But words are cheap

But lies are big to take

Time has come and gone for words

A thousands threats I've heard before

And all your words

Are too big to take

Never walk away from a fight thats worth fighting

Never hesitate when you know you're gonna act

Never waste your words on a fool you won't listen

Never sell your soul cause you'll never buy it... back

Time has come and gone for words

A thousands threats I've heard before

But words are cheap

But lies are big to take

Time has come and gone for words

A thousands threats I've heard before

And all your words

Are too big to take

Time has come and gone for words

A thousands threats I've heard before

But words are cheap

But lies are big to take

Time has come and gone for words

A thousands threats I've heard before

And all your words Are too big to take...

Lyrics provided by $\underline{\text{http://www.1songlyrics.com/}}$