

Threadbare

Stone Sour

Hold your breath and say goodbye—you never say a word
When you feel like your heart's gone wrong
When you feel like you've stayed too long... it's over
Letting go has let you down—just let me show you why
Every life is a chance to try
We can live like we both can't die Oh, in all this time
I never wanted to destroy a dream come true
And in all this time
I never wanted to destroy someone like you
I want you to stay
So give me a sign—give me your hand—I'll take you home
In the dark, we're all the same—we only seem alone
There's a place where we all must hide
There's a place that we lock from the inside... when it's over Everything we ever were and everything we are
We will heal as the days roll by
'Cause in the end... it's you and I Oh, in all this time
I never wanted to destroy a dream come true
And in all this time
I never wanted to destroy someone like you
I want you to stay
So give me a sign—give me your hand—I'll take you home We are sewn inside the fabric that is holding us together
We can only pray that something so tragic will save us all
Will save us all—we are on our own again
We are on our own again
Oh, in all this time
I never wanted to destroy a dream come true
And in all this time
I never wanted to destroy someone like you
And in all this time
I never wanted to destroy
A dream come true
And in all this time
I never wanted to destroy
Someone like you I want you to stay
So give me a sign
Give me your hand
I'll take you home We are on our own again

