

Too Damn Young

Luke Bryan

We met down at the floatin dock she snuck out scared she might get caught we were nervous, mmm but it was worth it there was no such thing as consequence with her in my arms if finally made sense in that moonlight, I saw her tanlines Everytime our feet are dangling in the water I can't help but think about her lying there, with her wet hair
that old wooden dock was warm on our backs the t-shirt for a pillow and just like that she kissed me like she meant forever we were too damn young to know any better the fog rolled in, she said I better go she took my t-shirt and wore it home a memory, a souvenir she could keep so I stayed and watched that sunrise like it was waking up my life to what love was, I could still see us Everytime our feet are dangling in the water
lying there, with her wet hair
