

Lose It (In the End)

Mark Ronson & The Business Intl.

Yeah, I've said too much again
Yeah, I've pushed too hard again
I wanna stop but when
I always lose it in the end Stupid once again
You wanna be my friend
I've pushed too hard again
I always lose it in the end I don't know how I can let you go
How will I let you go? Yo I keep my guards up when it comes to the women
Tone knew that ever since the beginning
That's why I stay in clubs down in the white denim
'Cause y'all girls is poison, peace to Mike Bivins
I couldn't let you go, and you know that I can't see another man tryna blow that
That's critical, love shots hurtin' me
Dr. Winfield said I need therapy Torment, misery is killing my physically
Why murder me legally, I loved you convincingly
So I'ma close my eyes and just pretend
'Cause word on the street's I might lose it in the end Yeah, I cared too much again
You stared too much at him
And this must be a sin
I always lose it in the end Just chill-out's what you said
Take a pill and go to bed
No matter how or when
I always lose it in the end
I don't know how I can let you go
How will I let you go? You I do what I does when it comes to the ladies
'Cause things ain't changed since the early 80s
A few babies, but I'm still picking them crazy
You wanna battle in court like Kim and Slim Shady? I ain't having that, no I ain't having that
You just tryna get rich like Miramax
Forced my hand girl to let you know
'Cause getting over on starks is real unnatural Yeah, I've said too much again
Yeah, I've pushed too hard again
I wanna stop but when
I always lose it in the end Stupid once again
You wanna be my friend
I've pushed too hard again
I always lose it in the end I don't know how I can let you go
How will I let you go?
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

