

Old Wounds

PVRIS

They say don't open old wounds
But you're still brand new
And all the things you said you ran through
You got a little more to prove
One day I'll give you my heart
When it's not in two
They say don't open old wounds
But I'm going to think I could love you 'til the day that you die
If you let me love you when the timing is right
And if they said I had to, I swear it'd wait my whole life
I think I could love you 'til the day that you die
They say don't open old wounds
But this is still brand new
And I've got nothing left to lose besides you
I've already lost you once
What more could you do?
They say don't open old wounds
But I want to think I could love you 'til the day that you die
If you let me love you when the timing is right
And if they said I had to, I swear I'd wait my whole life
I think I could love you 'til the day that you die Oh, I think I could love you
Think I could love you
Think I could love you
Oh, I think I could love you
Think I could love you
Think I could love you
Oh, I
They say don't open old wounds
But this is still brand new
And I've got nothing left to lose besides you
I've already lost you once
What more could you do? Oh, I think I could love you
Think I could love you
Think I could love you
Oh, I think I could love you
Think I could love you
Think I could love you

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>