

Virginia Bluebell

Miranda Lambert

Carrying the weight on the end of a limb your just waitin for somebody to pick you up again shaded by a tree, can't live up to a rose all you ever wanted was a silent place to grow Pretty little thing sometimes you gotta look up and let the world see
all the beauty that your made of cause the way you hang you head nobody can tell
your my Virginia bluebell
my Viginia bluebell
Even through the snow
a flower can bloom you just need a little push spring is coming soon umbrella in the rain they'll roll off your back better watcha can realize what you have Pretty little thing
sometimes you gotta look up
and let the world see
all the beauty that your made of
cause the way you hang you head
nobody can tell
your my Virginia bluebell
my Viginia bluebell
Put a little light in the darkest places put a little smile on the saddest faces Pretty little thing sometimes you gotta look up
and let the world see
all the beauty that your made of
cause the way you hang you head
nobody can tell
your my Virginia bluebell
my Viginia bluebell

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <http://www.1songlyrics.com/>

