Fly Away

Indigo Girls

Fly away little bird Any place in this open mouthed world Begs to be fed like a bed that beckons you, but you won't rest Everyone's got a need to go Most of us stick with our row to hoe But not you, you're the black crow With a straight line, and no time For the birds of prey who wreck your nest

Twice your size steal your best They set you on this course of your collision I am a stop along your way

I am the words you'll never say I crossed the great beyond of fear

I opened my eyes and saw us there, what a view

You went there too Fly away little bird

Find the song in you that no one's heard Strenghthen your wings as you sing your solo flight

Through this short life

Everyone's got a deep regret

We try to ground ourselves to forget

But your race to the end is neck and neck

You love them, you love them not

The birds of prey who wreck your nest,

Twice your size steal your best

They set you on this course of your collisionI am a stop along your way

I am the words you'll never say

I crossed the great beyond of fear

Opened my eyes and saw us there, what a view

And you went there too

But all along your chosen path are

Window panes and sheets of glass

That you won't see

You fly too fast

One day it will be overFly away little bird

The saddest song I ever heard

Was the one that I wrote you in my heart

That never made it to the world

Lyrics provided by http://www.1songlyrics.com/